Started going to church where his father was pastor in 1963 or so. We were friends. We spent many hours together through the years up to 1974. I have many vivid and good memories of our times together. One that makes me laugh every time I think of it was the day we were working around the church property and at the end of the day, he threw the shovels in the ditch and covered them up. I was glad when I heard that he was faithful in church after I moved away. My prayers and love to his family.
