words are not enough to express the love I have for my Dad nothing compares to the love and security my Dad provided to me I did not take this comfort for granted I always knew his love was a treasure life is so precious I thank him for his unconditional love I am thankful to have spent everyday with him during his final few weeks we spent every night talking about life he spoke only of the things that were most important to him his family his children his grandchildren and his wife I am inspired by his many words I feel so blessed to know he did not talk of things he did he only spoke about those he loved
